Dear Pavel Ruzicka,

GRI is pleased to announce the date of our next Global Conference, which will be held the 18th through the 20th of May 2016, at the RAI Convention Center in Amsterdam, the Netherlands. Please mark your calendars and make plans to attend.

More than 1200 sustainability leaders and practitioners from around the globe are expected to gather in the Dutch capital for GRI's 5th Global Conference. As with past conferences, GRI will create an inclusive meeting place, for individuals from multiple stakeholder groups and regional delegations, with a focus on networking, capability building and peer-to-peer learning. The GRI Global Conference attracts individuals working with the GRI Standard on a day-to-day basis, as well as, executives, policy-makers and other professionals with an interest in the link between sustainability reporting and the critical global challenges of our times.

In the coming weeks, you can find more information, about how you can contribute to the conference and help us shape the topics and content, by visiting the Global Conference page here.
